Terry & Marilyn: My heart is saddened to read of your father's/husband's passing. It is so hard to know what to say in times like this. We all shed the tears because we grieve, but there will be days to come that you will smile because of special remembrances of your loved one. Heaven celebrates the everlasting peace and joy of one who has just come home. Take strength in knowing that we will all be reunited. Find comfort in each other. God Bless you both. Love Brenda

Dear Terri, I am so sorry for your loss. At times like this there is a quote from an old movie that comes into my mind. He is with his King, he will always be young, he will have no pain, and I am glad to know that he is up there watching over you and your mom. While we miss them deeply and cry now for our loss. You are in my thoughts and prayers. Sheryl Boston

Dear Marilyn and Terry: I was so sorry to hear that Lee had passed away. I always enjoyed the good energy and wonderful smile that Lee carried with him. I remember attending your wedding when I was a little girl and being impressed with the lovely ceremony. Also, I remember Terry as a cute little girl staying with her Grandmother and Grandfather and how they adored her. I wish I could there for his service. My prayers and thoughts will be with you. Sincerely, Doris
