With profound love and immeasurable sorrow, we announce the passing of our precious son, Oliver Beckett Postel, who was born sleeping on April 25, 2018. Though his time was brief, Oliver's life has left an everlasting imprint on the hearts of all who love him. From the moment he was dreamed of, Oliver was cherished beyond words. He was deeply loved by his parents and surrounded by a family who eagerly awaited his arrival. In his quiet way, he brought people together, reminding us of the depth of love a tiny soul can hold and inspire. Though we did not get to hear his laughter or watch him grow, Oliver's presence will always be felt, in the softest breeze, in the stillness of quiet moments, and in the love that will never fade. He will forever be a part of our family's story, held close in every heartbeat. Oliver is survived by his parents, William Alan Postel and Ginger (Smith) Postel; his brothers, Elliott and Winston Postel; his grandparents, Donald and Beverly Postel of Kennedale, Texas, and Forrest and Judy Smith of Melissa, Texas; along with a host of loving aunts, uncles, and cousins who will forever hold him close in their hearts. He is preceded in death by his great-grandparents, Edward and Billie Lewis of McKinney, Texas; J.D. and Marie Smith of McKinney, Texas; M. Theresa Lytle of South Park, Seattle, Washington; James and Helen McCool of Star City, Arkansas. Services were privately held on May 8, 2018, at Cedar Hill Memorial Park Cemetery in Arlington, Texas. In our grief, we find comfort in knowing that love does not measure time. Oliver knew only love, and that love will carry his memory forward forever. Forever loved. Forever missed. Forever our baby. Forever a brother.

Our precious little Oliver. Like King David said about his baby.... I may not be able to bring you back, but one day I can go be with you. Until we meet again over in the Great beyond know this... Noonie and Big Papa love you, and he was so disappointed he wasn't there when you were born. We will see you and tell Bill her little girl said to give you a big sugar from me. ❤️

Words can't even convey how much we love little Oliver and when I look at baby Winston I see them both. No one can feel the pain as much as parents who have lost a child but God knows our sorrow and feels every pain. He puts every prayer and every little teardrop in a bottle but someday there will be no more pain and he will wipe away all tears from our eyes. I can see Oliver now at the feet of Jesus and running through a meadow of daisies with my mom, Alan's baby brother or sister and now Elder Pixler by his side. We are compassed with a great cloud of witnesses and when Jesus fights our battles I believe that baby Oliver and all of the saints that have gone on before us are cheering us on wars until we see Jesus face to face. Just know that we love you Alan and Ginger and we are here for you. Me Me & Paw Paw Postel
